I.

INTRODUCTION

Nehemiah Robinson, proceeding in pro se, is a California prison inmate incarcerated at Calipatria State Prison, Calipatria, California. Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint, brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, alleges Defendants violated Plaintiff's First, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights as well as his rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. § 12131 et seq. and the Rehabilitation Act, 29 U.S.C. § 794.

Plaintiff alleges he suffers from severe arthritis of many major joints and diffuse joint disease, along with serious problems with his right knee, which have caused him to have "severe chronic pain" for a "number of years" in the major joints and the right knee. (First Am. Compl. (FAC) pp.7-8 ¶¶ 1-2.) In his four counts, Plaintiff complains he was denied a lower bunk, he was denied use of a cane due to a false report, he was otherwise denied use of a cane, and he was denied pain medication. Defendants ask this Court to dismiss Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint in its entirety because he does not state a claim against any Defendant.

II.

PLAINTIFF'S ALLEGATIONS AND FACTS TO BE CONSIDERED

A. Facts Relating to the Lower Bunk.

Plaintiff alleges that due to his medical conditions he received chronos (i.e. notes kept chronologically in an inmate's file) requiring a ground floor cell, a bottom bunk, a walking cane, and certain physical limitations to any job assignment. (FAC p. 8 ¶ 3.) On or about February 6, 2006, Plaintiff was moved to a new housing area and assigned to the upper bunk. (Id. p. 8 ¶ 4.) Plaintiff's cell mate, who suffered from a bad back, a bad knee and weighed well over 230 pounds, was assigned to the lower bunk. (Id.) On that day, Plaintiff allegedly told Defendant Catlett he had a chrono entitling him to a lower bunk. (Id.)

On or about March 17, 2006, Plaintiff allegedly submitted to Defendant Garett an inmate appeal (aka a "602") along with a copy of the lower bunk chrono requesting to be placed in a particular cell which was vacant. (Id. p.8 ¶ 5.) Garrett allegedly gave Plaintiff this paperwork back and instructed Plaintiff to submit it to his co-worker, Defendant Arvizu, because Garrett did not have time to look into the issue. (*Id.*p. 8 ¶ 6.) Plaintiff allegedly gave this 602 paperwork to Defendant Arvizu, and on March 18, 2006, asked Arvizu if he had given the paperwork to Defendant Catlett. (Id. pp. 8-9 ¶¶ 7-8.) Defendant Arvizu allegedly informed Plaintiff he had given the 602 paperwork to Catlett, but he did not know whether or not Calett was going to do the cell move. (Id. p. 9 ¶ 8.) Plaintiff allegedly spoke with Catlett on two occasions regarding the cell move, and was told Catlett was going to talk to Garrett. (Id. p. 9 ¶ 9.) Plaintiff also asked Catlett if he had the 602 paperwork, to which Catlett responded he received it, but could not recall where he had placed it. (Id.)

On March 22, 2006, while at the medical facility, Plaintiff allegedly spoke with a doctor about the issue and was told someone would speak to Catlett because of the seriousness of Plaintiff's medical condition. (Id. p. 9 ¶ 10.) Correctional officer Horta, who had been with Plaintiff at the medical facility, allegedly spoke with Garrett and personally gave Garrett an accommodation chrono reflecting Plaintiff's need for a lower bunk. (Id.) Garrett allegedly told Horta he would have to talk to his co-worker Arvizu. (Id.)

Plaintiff alleges Garrett, Arvizu and Catlett had been repeatedly made aware of Plaintiff's serious medical condition and the need to move him to a bottom bunk. (Id. p. 9 ¶ 11.) Plaintiff alleges the vacant cell noted above was empty for seven days, and it was on the bottom tier eleven cells down from Plaintiff's cell. (Id. p. 10 ¶ 12.) Plaintiff alleges Catlett did not submit this March 18, 2006, 602 inmate appeal to the appeals coordinator, nor was the 602 returned to Plaintiff. (Id. p. 10 ¶ 13.)

On March 29, 2006, Plaintiff submitted another 602 appeal. (Id. p. 10 ¶ 14.) The appeals coordinator attached a Reasonable Modification or Accommodation Request form to the 602 in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. (Id. p. 10 ¶ 15.) Plaintiff alleges he was interviewed by Defendant Catlett, who denied the appeal on April 25, 2006.[1/] (Id. p. 10 ¶ 16.) Defendant Price denied the appeal at the first level on April 25, 2006, and then partially granted it. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges his accommodation request was reviewed at the second level by Defendant

1. Plaintiff also alleges this was in violation of Calif. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3084.5(e), which prohibits formal appeals from being reviewed by a staff person who participated in the event. Plaintiff, however, alleges the formal reviews - i.e. the First, Second and Director's - were performed by others. Thus, Catlett's informal review did not violate this Code section. At any rate, Plaintiff's request for a lower bunk was subsequently granted. In fact, the informal level required the appellant and "staff involved in the action or decision" to attempt to resolve the grievance informally. (Cal. Code. Regs tit. 15 § 3084.5(a).)

Bourland and partially granted on May 30, 2006, and was denied at the director's level on June 28, 2006. (Id. pp. 10-11 ¶16.)

According to the inmate appeal documents, which Plaintiff references in his First Amended Complaint (FAC pp. 10-11 ¶¶ 14-16), on May 4, 2006, a form was generated moving Plaintiff to a lower bunk. (First Level Response by Price dated May 8, 2006, Second Level Response by Bourland dated May 30, 2006, attached to Plaintiff's inmate appeal dated March 29, 2006, attached as Exhibit 1 to the Declaration of Bell in support of the Request for Judicial Notice.) Because these documents were referenced in Plaintiff's Complaint, the Court may take judicial notice of facts referenced therein. Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, ___U.S. ___, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1973 n. 13 (2007); Fed. Rule Evid. 201. "In ruling on a 12(b)(6) motion, a court may generally consider only allegations contained in the pleadings, exhibits attached to the complaint, and matters properly subject to judicial notice. [Citation.] However, in order to '[p]revent [ ] plaintiffs from surviving a Rule 12(b)(6) motion by deliberately omitting . . . documents upon which their claims are based,' a court may consider a writing referenced in a complaint but not explicitly incorporated therein if the complaint relies on the document and its authenticity is unquestioned." Swartz v. KPMG LLP, 476 F.3d 756, 763 (9th Cir. 2007).

Plaintiff alleges he experienced severe pain and swelling of his right knee as a result of jumping up to the upper bunk and coming down from the bunk on the injured right leg/knee. (FAC p. 10 ¶ 11.)

B. Facts Relating to Plaintiff Being Denied His Walking Cane Due to a False Report.

On February 14, 2007, a chrono allowing Plaintiff to possess a walking cane was allegedly renewed. (FAC p. 14 ¶ 26.) On August 17, 2007, Plaintiff was allegedly falsely accused of "battery on an inmate with a weapon." (Id. p. 14 ¶ 27.) On May 30, 2008, Plaintiff was allegedly found "not guilty" of the offense due to insufficient evidence. (Id. pp. 14-15 ¶ 28.)

Plaintiff alleges that on August 17, 2007, Defendant Johnson set in motion a criminal act committed by Defendant Catlett, by falsifying and fabricating allegations in a CDCR 837-A, A1 Cover Sheet/Supplemental Report dated August 17, 2007, by stating "inmate Clark received a blow to his head this injury was clearly a result of inmate Robinson striking inmate Clark on the head with a cane..." (Id. pp.15-16 ¶ 31.) Plaintiff alleges Johnson should have known his false statement would cause Catlett to inflict the constitutional injury alleged by Plaintiff. (Id. pp. 15-16 ¶ 31.)

To wit, Plaintiff alleges on August 17, 2007, Defendant Catlett authored and generated a false general chrono (aka a "128-B") authorizing and approving confiscation of Plaintiff's cane by falsely referencing information from Crime Incident Report Log # CAL-FBY-07-08-0240 as a means to prevent Plaintiff from ever being able to possess a walking cane. (Id. p.15 ¶ 30.) The false statement was as follows: "Plaintiff was observed ... striking the other inmate numerous times with the cane." (Id.)

Plaintiff alleges Defendant Catlett and Johnson were aware of the seriousness of Plaintiff's knee injury and the risk of further injury if he did not possess a cane. (Id. p.16 ¶ 32.) Plaintiff asserts he has been experiencing severe pain and swelling of his right knee as a result of the acts committed by Catlett and Johnson, i.e. removal of his walking cane. (Id. p.16 ¶ 33.)

Documents plaintiff references in his First Amended Complaint (Id. pp. 15-16 ¶¶ 30-31) show observation-booth officer Rivas, not named as a defendant, reported he observed Plaintiff "had a cane in his hands and was swinging it at" inmate Clark, and that correctional officer Neal, also not named as a defendant, observed Plaintiff "holding a cane in his right hand attempting to strike" inmate Clark. (Crime Incident Report p. 7 of 15 [by Neal] and p. 11 of 15 [by Rivas], attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated September 12, 2007, attached as Exhibit 4 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.) The observation booth officer also reported that medical staff determined inmate Clark received a "laceration . . . consistent with being bludgeoned with the cane." (Rules Violation Report by Rivas dated August 17, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated September 12, 2007, attached as Exhibit 4 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.)

Plaintiff alleges he filed an inmate appeal on September 12, 2007, regarding the statement made by Catlett, and that on October 16, 2007, the appeal was partially granted at the first level by Defendant Johnson,[2/] that he submitted the appeal to the second level where it was partially granted by Defendant Ochoa, and that it was denied at the director's level. (Id. p. 16 ¶ 34.)

The responses to Plaintiff's appeal show the general chrono indicating Plaintiff was "observed striking" the other inmate numerous times was revised to indicate Plaintiff was observed "attempting" to use his cane to assault another inmate. (First Level Appeal Response by Johnson dated October 16, 2007; Second Level Appeal Response by Ochoa dated November 14, 2007; revised General Chrono by Catlett dated August 17, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated September 12, 2007, attached as Exhibit 4 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.)

The responses also indicate Plaintiff had been provided a replacement cane. (Id.)

C. Facts Relating to Plaintiff Being Denied a Walking Cane by Other Defendants.

Plaintiff alleges that on August 23, 2007, he appeared before Institutional Classification Committee (Committee) and was allegedly forced by Defendant Widmann to walk a distance to the hearing without his cane. (FAC p. 20 ¶¶ 42-43.) When the chairman of the committee, Defendant Janda, observed Plaintiff limping badly while entering the room, Janda asked Plaintiff what was wrong with his leg. (Id. p. 20 ¶ 44.) Plaintiff informed Janda his cane was unjustly confiscated on August 17, 2007, and expressed in great detail the seriousness of Plaintiff's many medical conditions and that he had been in severe pain and that his right knee had been swelling as a result of the unjust confiscation of his walking cane. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges Janda instructed Defendant Correctional Officer Widmann to go get Plaintiff a cane. (Id. p. 20 ¶ 46.) Widmann did not get Plaintiff a cane; rather, Widmann issued Plaintiff a Health Care Services Request form and instructed Plaintiff to fill it out and submit to medical. (Id. pp. 20-21 ¶ 46-47.) Defendant Janda did not witness Widmann's actions. (Id. p. 21 ¶ 48.) After the hearing, Widmann allegedly forced Plaintiff to walk a distance

2. Plaintiff also alleges this was a violation of Calif. Code Regs. tit. 15, § 3084.5(e), which prohibits formal appeals from being reviewed by a staff person who participated in the event. In that it was partially granted, Plaintiff was not harmed.

back to his cell without a cane. (Id.)

Plaintiff allegedly repeatedly asked Defendant Widmann for a cane for nearly a month, if not longer. (Id. p. 21 ¶ 49.) Plaintiff was experiencing severe pain and swelling to his right knee. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges he was escorted to showers for nearly a month, if not longer, without a walking cane, and to medical, and on one occasion to the exercise yard, and he experienced severe pain in his right knee and swelling during these escorts. (Id. p. 21 ¶ 50.) Plaintiff allegedly submitted several health-care-services requests for a walking cane and for pain medication dosage increases. (Id. p. 21 ¶ 51.) Plaintiff alleges that on August 27, 2007 and August 29, 2007, medical personnel told Plaintiff that custody was preventing Plaintiff from receiving a cane. (Id. p. 21 ¶ 52.)

Plaintiff alleges that on September 11, 2007, he filed a Reasonable Modification or Accommodation Request, and that he was interviewed on September 20, 2007, by Defendant Nelson, and that Nelson granted Plaintiff's accommodation request for a cane, and on September 24, 2007, Defendant Janda approved the disposition. (Id. p. 21 ¶ 53.)

D. Facts Relating to the Denial of Pain Medication.

Plaintiff alleges that on or about May 2007, he was taken to an outside hospital, examined and prescribed the pain medication Tramadol Hydrochloride by an orthopedic specialist. (Id. p. 26 ¶ 62.) Plaintiff alleges that on June 17, 2007, Defendant Noriega, L.V.N., gave Plaintiff this pain medication for the first time, stating she did not know why Plaintiff had not been receiving this pain medication, and that she did not know when the pain medication had been approved but specifically stated she "will let Plaintiff know tomorrow." (Id. p. 26 ¶ 63.) Plaintiff alleges that the next day on June 18, 2007, when Noriega was passing out pain medication, Plaintiff requested his pain medication but Noriega did not have it. (Id. p. 26 ¶ 64.) Noriega did not recall having given Plaintiff pain medication the day before, nor could Noriega give Plaintiff the date of approval of the pain medication. (Id.) Noriega wrote Plaintiff's name down and said she would check into the matter, but Noriega never got back to Plaintiff. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges Noriega and other medical staff were aware Plaintiff was in severe pain when he was denied his pain medication. (Id. p. 26 ¶ 65.)

Plaintiff alleges that on June 18, 2007, he filed an inmate appeal regarding the medication issue, and that on July 20, 2007, Plaintiff was interviewed by Defendant Salgado, R.N. at the first level of appeal, and his appeal was partially granted. (Id. pp. 26-27 ¶ 66.) In the response, Defendant Salgado allegedly specifically noted that: 1) Plaintiff's medication was ordered on May 23, 2007, but was never noted; 2) Plaintiff should have received his medication that day or the next day; 3) he would discuss the issue with "B" yard medical staff regarding prevention of these types of issues; and, 4) he asked who could address Plaintiff's request for $5,000 for pain and suffering. (Id.) On or about July 24, 2007, Defendant Correa, Supervising R.N., approved the first level decision, then she partially granted the appeal at the second level on August 30, 2007. (Id. p. 27 ¶ 66.) Defendant Ball, Chief Physician/Surgeon, approved the second level decision on or about August 30, 2007. (Id.) On December 14, 2007, the appeal was denied at the director's level of appeal by Defendant O'Shaughnessy, appeal examiner, who reviewed the matter for the Director of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation. (Id.)

These inmate appeal documents which Plaintiff references in his First Amended Complaint (FAC pp. 26-27 ¶ 66) show that on July 25, 2007, when requesting a second level review, Plaintiff wrote he was appealing because he had not received the monetary compensation he requested for pain and suffering, that he had been experiencing severe pain in his right knee and lower back and had not seen the doctor to examine him and refill or prescribe pain medication and schedule right knee surgery. Plaintiff did not allege he had not started receiving the pain medication at issue as of that date. (Request for Second Level Review by Plaintiff dated July 25, 2007, as part of Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice) (emphasis added).)

The Second Level Appeal Response indicates that Tramadol had been removed from the revised May 2007 California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation formulary, and the resulting need to obtain clarification from Sacramento regarding usage of Tramadol caused a delay. (Second Level Appeal Response by Correa dated August 20, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.)

The documents also indicate the appeal was denied at the director's level simply because all of Plaintiff's issues had been addressed by the institution except for the requested monetary compensation, and that the appeal process did not allow for monetary compensation at any level. (Director's Level Appeal Response by N. Grannis, reviewed on behalf of the Director of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation by O'Shaughnessy dated December 14, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.)

III.

LEGAL STANDARD FOR MOTION TO DISMISS

A Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss tests the sufficiency of the complaint. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001).

> Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8 (a)(2) requires only 'a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.' Specific facts are not necessary; the statement need only 'give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.'

Erickson v. Pardus, ___ U.S. ___, 127 S. Ct. 2197, 2200 (2007) (internal quotations omitted) (quoting Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. ___, 127 S. Ct. 1955, 1964 (2007)). Nonetheless, > [w]hile a complaint attacked by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss does not need detailed factual allegations, a plaintiff's obligation to provide the grounds of his entitlement to relief requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do. Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level on the assumption that all the allegations in the complaint are true . . .

Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 127 S. Ct. at 1964-65 (internal citations and quotations omitted).

The Court must assume the truth of the facts presented and construe all inferences from them in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party when reviewing a motion to dismiss under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). Thompson v. Davis, 295 F.3d 890, 895 (9th Cir. 2002); Cahill v. Liberty Mutual Ins. Co., 80 F.3d 336, 337-38 (9th Cir. 1996). While a court generally cannot consider material outside the pleadings in deciding a motion to dismiss, the Court may consider exhibits attached to, or referenced in, the complaint, and matters which are properly subject to judicial notice. Arpin v. Santa Clara Valley Transp. Agency, 261 F.3d 912, 925 (9th Cir. 2001);

Roth v. Garcia Marquez, 942 F.2d 617, 625 n.1 (9th Cir. 1991); In re Colonial Mortg. Bankers Corp., 324 F.3d 12, 16 (1st Cir. 2003); Swartz v. KPMG LLP, 476 F.3d 756, 763 (9th Cir. 2007).

Where a person appears in propria persona in a civil rights case, courts must construe the pleadings liberally and afford the plaintiff any benefit of the doubt. Karim-Panahi v. Los Angeles Police Dept., 839 F.2d 621, 623 (9th Cir. 1988). The rule of liberal construction is "particularly important in civil rights cases." Ferdik v. Bonzelet, 963 F.2d 1258, 1261 (9th Cir. 1992). However, courts "may not supply essential elements of the claim that were not initially pled." Ivey v. Board of Regents of the University of Alaska, 673 F.2d 266, 268 (9th Cir. 1982); Bruns v. Nat'l Credit Union Admin., 122 F.3d 1251, 1257 (9th Cir. 1997). Additionally, the "court is not required to accept legal conclusions cast in the form of factual allegations if those conclusions cannot reasonably be drawn from the facts alleged." Clegg v. Cult Awareness Network, 18 F.3d 752, 754-55 (9th Cir. 1994). Although the court construes the complaint liberally, the court will not assume that defendants have violated a plaintiff's rights in ways that have not been alleged. See Associated Gen. Contractors of Cal., Inc. v. Cal. State Council of Carpenters, 459 U.S. 519, 526 (1983).

A court must give pro se litigants leave to amend the complaint "unless it determines the pleading could not possibly be cured by the allegations of other facts." Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc) (citing Doe v. United States, 58 F.3d 494, 497 (9th Cir. 1995)). Finally, before a pro se litigant's complaint may be dismissed, the court must provide the plaintiff with a statement of the deficiencies in the complaint. Karim-Panahi, 839 F.2d at 623.

IV.

THE FIRST COUNT SHOULD BE DISMISSED

In Count One, Plaintiff sues Defendants Catlett, Garrett, Arvizu, Price, Bourland, and Tilton (former Director/Secretary of CDCR) for violations of: 1) the Eighth Amendment's proscription against cruel and unusual punishment; 2) the Fourteenth Amendment's equal protection and due process protections; 3) the Americans with Disabilities Act; and, 4) the Rehabilitation Act. (FAC. p. 7 caption, p. 11 ¶ 17.)

A. Allegedly Not Assigning Plaintiff a Lower Bunk from February 6, 2006, to May 4, 2006, Did Not Amount to Cruel and Unusual Punishment in Violation of the Eighth Amendment.

The Eighth Amendment is not a basis for broad prison reform. It requires neither that prisons be comfortable nor that they provide every amenity one might find desirable. Rhodes v. Chapman, 452 U.S. 337, 347-52 (1981); Hoptowit v. Ray, 682 F.2d 1237, 1246 (9th Cir. 1982). Rather, the Eighth Amendment proscribes the "unnecessary and wanton infliction of pain," which includes those sanctions that are "so totally without penological justification that it results in the gratuitous infliction of suffering." Gregg v. Georgia, 428 U.S. 153, 173, 183 (1976); see also Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 834 (1994); Rhodes, 452 U.S. at 347. This includes any punishment incompatible with "the evolving standards of decency that mark the progress of a maturing society." Trop v. Dulles, 356 U.S. 86, 101 (1958); see also Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 102 (1976).

To assert an Eighth Amendment claim for deprivation of humane conditions of confinement, a prisoner must satisfy two requirements: one objective and one subjective. Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 834 (1994). Under the objective requirement, the prison official's acts or omissions must be "sufficiently serious" - i.e. the actions must deprive an inmate of the "minimal civilized measure of life's necessities." Id.; Allen v. Sakai, 48 F.3d 1082, 1087 (9th Cir. 1994). Objectively, there is no Eighth Amendment violation so long as the institution "furnishes sentenced prisoners with adequate food, clothing, shelter, sanitation, medical care, and personal safety." Hoptowit v. Ray, 682 F.2d 1237, 1246 (9th Cir. 1982) (internal quotations omitted).

The subjective component, which relates to the defendant's state of mind, requires "deliberate indifference." Allen, 48 F.3d at 1087. Deliberate indifference exists when a prison official "knows of and disregards an excessive risk to inmate health and safety; the official must be both aware of facts from which the inference could be drawn that a substantial risk of serious harm exists, and he must also draw the inference." Farmer, 511 U.S. at 837.

The subjective element of deliberate indifference mandates an examination of the state of mind of the person imposing the deprivation.

> It is obduracy and wantonness, not inadvertence or error in good faith, that characterize the conduct prohibited by the Cruel and Unusual Punishments Clause, whether that > conduct occurs in connection with establishing conditions of confinement, supplying medical needs, or restoring official control over a tumultuous cellblock.

Wilson v. Seiter, 501 U.S. 294, 299 (1991) (quoting Whitley v. Albers, 475 U.S. 312, 319 (1986)) (italics in original; internal quotations omitted); see LeMaire v. Maass, 12 F.3d 1444, 1452 (9th Cir. 1993).

Although Plaintiff had a lower bunk chrono due to medical problems, he was allegedly assigned an upper bunk, but this lasted for only three months - from February 6, 2006, to May 4, 2006. (FAC p. 8 ¶¶ 3-4, p. pp. 10-11 ¶¶ 14-16; First Level Response by Price dated May 8, 2006, Second Level Response by Bourland dated May 30, 2006, attached as Exhibit 1 to the Declaration in support of the Request for Judicial Notice.) Plaintiff alleges he experienced severe pain and swelling of his right knee as a result of jumping up to the upper bunk and coming down from the bunk on the injured right leg/knee. (FAC p. 10 ¶ 11.)

Plaintiff could have relied on parts of his body other than his right leg to get up and down from an upper bunk, and could have slowly pulled himself up and down instead of "jumping" on his bad leg. Granted this would have been an inconvenience because getting in and out of bed would have been somewhat more methodical and time consuming, but this would not result in wanton infliction of pain. This inconvenience, lasting for less than three months, was hardly a deprivation of the minimal civilized measure of life's necessities. Thus, Plaintiff does not meet the objective component of an Eighth Amendment claim.

Even if he did, Plaintiff admits his cell mate suffered from a bad back, a bad knee and weighed well over 230 pounds. (Id. p. 8 ¶ 4.) Thus, assigning Plaintiff to the upper bunk instead of his cell mate was not deliberate indifference toward Plaintiff; but rather, a simple and reasonable assessment of which inmate would have a more difficult time with the upper bunk. Thus, Plaintiff does not meet the subjective component of an Eighth Amendment claim. The Eight Amendment claim of Count One should be dismissed in its entirety.

Assuming arguendo Plaintiff has stated an Eight Amendment claim, this claim can stand only against Defendant Catlett. Defendants Garrett, Arvizu, Price, Bourland and Tilton (Director/Secretary of CDCR) should be dismissed from the Eighth Amendment claim in Count One.

Garrett is alleged to merely have given Plaintiff back his inmate appeal paperwork and to have asked him to give it to correctional officer Arizu, and later on, to have received an accommodation chrono from medical and responded to such receipt by saying he needed to talk to Arizu. (Id. at p. 8-9 ¶¶ 5-6, 10.) Arivizu allegedly took the inmate appeal paperwork and gave it to Catlett within short order. (Id. at pp. 8-9 ¶¶ 7-9.) Price allegedly both rendered a disposition denying Plaintiff's accommodation request for a lower bunk, then granted it that same day. (Id. at p. 10 ¶ 16.) Bourland allegedly reviewed the accommodation request at the second level and partially granted it. (Id.) As for Tilton, the former Director/Secretary of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, it is unknown what he is accused of having done to violate Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment rights. Because liability under section 1983 is predicated upon an affirmative link or connection between the defendants' actions and the claimed deprivations, the allegations against Tilton and these other Defendants are insufficient to state a claim. See Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 372-73 (1976); May v. Enomoto, 633 F.2d 164, 167 (9th Cir. 1980).

B. Allegedly Denying Plaintiff a Lower Bunk from February 6, 2006, to May 4, 2006, Was Not an Equal Protection Violation.

The Equal Protection Clause requires that persons who are similarly situated be treated alike. City of Cleburne v. Cleburne Living Center, Inc., 473 U.S. 432, 439 (1985). An equal protection claim may be established in two ways. One way to state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for a violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment is for a plaintiff to "show that the defendants acted with an intent or purpose to discriminate against the plaintiff based upon membership in a protected class." Barren v. Harrington, 152 F.3d 1193, 1194-95 (9th Cir. 1998). Under this theory of equal protection, the plaintiff must show the defendants' actions were a result of the plaintiff's membership in a suspect class, such as race. Thornton v. City of St. Helens, 425 F.3d 1158, 1166-67 (9th Cir. 2005).

If the action in question does not involve a suspect classification, a plaintiff may establish an equal protection claim by showing that similarly situated individuals were intentionally treated differently without a rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose. Village of Willowbrook v. Olech, 528 U.S. 562, 564 (2000); Squaw Valley Development Co. v. Goldberg, 375 F.3d 936, 944 (9th Cir. 2004) (overruling on other grounds recognized by Action Apartment Ass'n, Inc. v. Santa Monica Rent Control Bd., 509 F.3d 1020, 1025 (9th Cir. 2007)); SeaRiver Mar. Fin. Holdings, Inc. v. Mineta, 309 F.3d 622, 679 (9th Cir. 2002). To state an equal protection claim under this theory, a plaintiff must allege that: 1) the plaintiff is a member of an identifiable class; 2) the plaintiff was intentionally treated differently from others similarly situated; and 3) there is no rational basis for the difference in treatment. Village of Willowbrook, 528 U.S. at 564.

In his First Amended Complaint, Plaintiff does not allege an equal protection violation. That is, he does not allege he was not given a lower bunk because of his alleged disability. Rather, he complains he should have been singled out for different treatment because of his alleged disability. The equal protection claim in count one should be dismissed.

C. Plaintiff Does Not Allege a Due Process Violation.

Plaintiff's pleadings offer little explanation as to the basis for this Fourteenth Amendment due process violation apart from stating the Fourteenth Amendment was violated. Reading count one the First Amended Complaint liberally, however, Plaintiff appears to be attempting to assert he had a liberty interest in a lower bunk as a result of the lower bunk chrono.

The procedural guarantees of due process apply only when a constitutionally-protected liberty or property interest is at stake. Ingraham v. Wright, 430 U.S. 651, 672 (1977); Board of Regents v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 569 (1972); Schroeder v. McDonald, 55 F.3d 454, 462 (9th Cir. 1995). Liberty interests protectable by the Fourteenth Amendment may arise from two sources - the Due Process Clause itself or state law or regulations. Meachum v. Fano, 427 U.S. 215, 224-27 (1976); Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 557-58 (1974); Smith v. Sumner, 994 F.2d 1401, 1405-06 (9th Cir. 1993). The Due Process Clause itself does not confer on inmates a liberty interest in avoiding "more adverse conditions of confinement." Wilkinson v. Austin, 545 U.S. 209, 221 (2005). In fact, within the prison context, the Supreme Court has identified few protected liberty interests under the due process clause itself. Serrano v, Francis, 345 F.3d 1071, 1078 (9th Cir. 2003) (citing Vitek v. Jones, 445 U.S. 480, 493 (1980) (freedom from transfer to a mental hospital), and Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210, 221-22 (1990) (freedom from the involuntary administration of psychotropic drugs)).

As to due process protections arising from state law or regulations, the Supreme Court in Sandin v. Conner, 515 U.S. 472 (1995), held that constitutionally protected liberty interests are "limited to freedom from restraint which ... imposes atypical and significant hardships on the inmate in relation to the ordinary incident of prison life." Id. at 483-84. In short, plaintiffs must allege "a dramatic departure from the basic conditions" of confinement before they can state a procedural due process claim." Id. at 485. Here, having to use an upper bunk is not a dramatic departure from the basic conditions of confinement. Thus, there is no liberty interest implicated.

To the extent Plaintiff alleges a due process violation in connection with his inmate appeal, Plaintiff received all the process he was due in that his accommodation request was granted and he was moved to a lower bunk.

The due process claim in count one should be dismissed.

D. Plaintiff's Americans with Disabilities Act and Rehabilitation Act Claims Should Be Dismissed.

To prove a violation of Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), a plaintiff must show: (1) he is a qualified individual with a disability; (2) he was either excluded from participation in or denied the benefits of a public entity's services, programs or activities, or was otherwise discriminated against by the public entity; and (3) such exclusion, denial of benefits, or discrimination was by reason of his disability. Weinreigh v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transp. Authority, 114 F.3d 976, 978 (9th Cir. 1997); see 42 U.S.C. §§ 12132; see Alsbrook v. City of Maumelle, 184 F.3d 999, 1005 n. 8 (8th Cir.1999) ("Title II provides disabled individuals redress for discrimination by a 'public entity.' See 42 U.S.C. §§ 12132. That term, as it is defined within the statute, does not include individuals. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 12131(1).") (emphasis added in italics and bold). Similarly, under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, a plaintiff must show: (1) he is an individual with a disability; (2) he is otherwise qualified to receive the benefit; (3) he was denied the benefits of the program solely by reason of his disability; and (4) the program receives federal financial assistance. Weinreigh v. Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transp. Authority, 114 F.3d at 978; see 29 U.S.C. § 794 (emphasis added).

Here, none of the Defendants are public entities thereby precluding an ADA claim against them. Additionally, Plaintiff has not, and cannot allege the Defendants are programs that receive federal financial assistance, thereby precluding the Rehabilitation Act claim. This applies equally to the ADA and Rehabilitation Act claims in Counts Two, Three and Four.

Even if Plaintiff could sue Defendants, to recover monetary damages under Title II of the ADA or the Rehabilitation Act in a failure to accommodate case, the plaintiff must prove intentional discrimination, the standard for which is deliberate indifference. Duvall v. County of Kitsap, 260 F.3d 1124, 1138 (9th Cir.2001). Thus, the ADA/Rehabilitation Act claims should be dismissed for the same reason the Eighth Amendment claim should be dismissed.

V.

THE SECOND COUNT SHOULD BE DISMISSED

In Count Two, Plaintiff sues Defendants Catlett, Johnson, Ochao and Tilton for violations of: 1) the Eighth Amendment's proscription against cruel and unusual punishment; 2) the Fourteenth Amendment's equal protection and due process protections; 3) the Americans with Disabilities Act; and, 4) the Rehabilitation Act. (FAC p. 14 caption, p. 17 ¶ 35.)

Plaintiff alleges Defendant Johnson falsified and fabricated allegations in a report by stating an inmate "received a blow to his head ... clearly a result of inmate Robinson striking inmate Clark on the head with a cane...." (Id. pp. 15-16 ¶ 31.) Plaintiff alleges Johnson should have known this would lead Defendant Catlett to author and generate a false general chrono which approved confiscation of his cane by misrepresenting that information in an incident report supported such confiscation. (Id. p. 15-16 ¶¶ 30-31.)

In the general chrono, Catlett stated Plaintiff was "observed ... striking the other inmate numerous times with the cane." (Id. p. 15 ¶ 30.) In actuality, Plaintiff was observed by observation booth officer Rivas with "a cane in his hands and was swinging it at" another inmate, and by correctional officer Neal "holding a cane in his right hand attempting to strike" that other inmate. (Crime Incident Report p. 7 of 15 [by Neal] and p. 11 of 15 [by Rivas], attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated September 12, 2007, attached as Exhibit 4 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.) The observation booth officer also reported that medical staff determined the other inmate received a "laceration ... consistent with being bludgeoned with the cane." (Rules Violation Report by Rivas dated August 17, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated September 12, 2007, attached as Exhibit 4 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.)

Improperly reporting Plaintiff was observed "striking" an inmate numerous times with his cane, instead of indicating Plaintiff had been observed "swinging [his cane] at" the inmate by one officer and "attempting to strike" the inmate with the cane by another, and that the inmate had a "laceration . . . consistent with being bludgeoned with the cane," clearly does not meet the requirement of causation. The actual observations made by more than one correctional officer of seeing Plaintiff wielding his cane against an inmate along with the medical evidence the inmate had an injury consistent with being pummeled by a cane was more than adequate to have Plaintiff's cane taken away.[3/]

As to an alleged due process or equal protection violations, even if such could be extracted from these facts, the documents Plaintiff referenced in Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint show that the general chrono was corrected to properly reflect the actual observations. (First Level Appeal Response by Johnson dated October 16, 2007; Second Level Appeal Response by Ochoa dated November 14, 2007; revised General Chrono by Catlett dated August 17, 2007, attached to

3. Plaintiff's allegation that nine months later he was found not guilty of the offense due to insufficient evidence (FAC pp. 14-15 ¶ 28) is immaterial. Catlett and Johnson cannot be faulted for relying on the report of correctional officers who were involved in the incident.

Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated September 12, 2007, attached as Exhibit 4 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.) The ADA and Rehabilitation Act claims, as discussed above, are not available against non-public entity Defendants. Even if the causes of action were available, they should be dismissed for the same reason that the Eighth Amendment claim should be dismissed.

As to Ochoa and Tilton, Plaintiff alleges he submitted the appeal to the second level where it was partially granted by Defendant Ochoa, and that it was denied at the director's level. (Id. p. 16 ¶ 34.) Plaintiff merely alleges Ochoa partially granted his appeal, and makes no allegations against Tilton. Liability under section 1983 is predicated upon an affirmative link or connection between the defendants' actions and the claimed deprivations. See Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 372-73 (1976); May v. Enomoto, 633 F.2d 164, 167 (9th Cir. 1980).

Count Two of the First Amended Complaint should be dismissed without leave to amend because amendment would not cure the defects.

VI.

THE THIRD COUNT SHOULD BE DISMISSED

In Count Three, Plaintiff sues Defendants Widmann, Nelson, and Janda for violations of: 1) the Eighth Amendment's proscription against cruel and unusual punishment; 2) the Fourteenth Amendment's equal protection and due process protections; 3) the Americans with Disabilities Act; and, 4) the Rehabilitation Act. (FAC p. 20 caption, p. 22 ¶ 54.)

Plaintiff alleges that on August 23, 2007, he was forced by Widmann to walk to an Institutional Classification Committee hearing without a cane. Defendant Janda, after observing Plaintiff limping badly while entering the room and hearing Plaintiff's story about the confiscation of his cane, instructed Correctional Officer Defendant Widmann to get Plaintiff a cane. Allegedly instead of getting Plaintiff a cane, unbeknownst to Janda, Defendant Widmann issued Plaintiff a Health Care Services Request form and instructed Plaintiff to fill it out and submit it to medical. After the hearing, Widmann allegedly forced Plaintiff to walk back to his cell without a cane. Plaintiff allegedly repeatedly asked Widmann about his cane and submitted several requests to health care services but was told on August 27, 2007, and August 29, 2007, "custody" was preventing Plaintiff from receiving a cane. On September 11, 2007, Plaintiff filed an accommodation request form regarding the cane; he was interviewed on September 20, 2007, by Defendant Nelson and granted the cane accommodation on September 24, 2007, the disposition of which was approved by Defendant Janda. (FAC pp. 20-21.)

There are no allegations against either Defendants Janda or Nelson to even arguably support any claim in Count Three. Liability under section 1983 is predicated upon an affirmative link or connection between the defendants' actions and the claimed deprivations. See Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 372-73 (1976); May v. Enomoto, 633 F.2d 164, 167 (9th Cir. 1980).

As to Defendant Widmann, he promptly provided Plaintiff paperwork needed to obtain a replacement cane in a manner which would allow Plaintiff to legitimately possess the cane on prison grounds. Plaintiff alleges he was told "custody," not Widmann, was preventing Plaintiff from receiving a cane. Plaintiff alleges he repeatedly asked Widmann for the cane, but does not allege he needed Widmann to provide additional paperwork to him and that Widmann did not do so. Plaintiff is trying to blame Widmann for the actions of others.

Regarding Plaintiff's allegation that Widmann forced him to walk to and from the hearing without a cane which caused Plaintiff pain during the escort, this did not deprive Plaintiff of the "minimal civilized measure of life's necessities" given that his pain was short-lived, given that Plaintiff needed to attend the hearing, and given that Plaintiff was already suffering "severe chronic pain" in his joints for a number of years due to severe arthritis and diffuse joint disease. (FAC pp. 7-8 ¶¶ 1-2). Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 834 (1994); Allen v. Sakai, 48 F.3d 1082, 1087 (9th Cir. 1994).

Plaintiff fails to allege facts showing deliberate indifference by Widmann as to the Eighth Amendment claim and ADA/Rehabilitation claims and causation as to any of the claims. Plaintiff also fails to allege any facts to support an equal protection claim.

Count Three of the Complaint should be dismissed without leave to amend because amendment would not cure the defects.

VII.

THE FOURTH COUNT SHOULD BE DISMISSED

In Count Four, Plaintiff sues Defendants Noriega, Salgado, Correa, Ball, O'Shaughnessy, and Tilton (Director/Secretary of CDCR) for violations of the Eighth Amendment's proscription against cruel and unusual punishment, and for interference with/denial of medical treatment/medication. [4/]

Plaintiff alleges he was prescribed pain medication Tramadol in May 2007, by an outside physician, but was only first given the medication on June 17, 2006. When Defendant Noriega L.V.N. gave Plaintiff the medication, Noriega did not know why Plaintiff had not received his medication before that date or when the pain medication had been approved. The next day Plaintiff requested his pain medication from Noriega, but she did not have it, nor did she recall having given Plaintiff the medication the day before, nor could she tell Plaintiff the date the pain medication had been approved. Noriega wrote Plaintiff's name down and said she would check, but she never got back to him. (FAC pp. 26.)

On June 18, 2007, Plaintiff filed an inmate appeal and was interviewed on July 20, 2007, by Defendant Salgado, R.N., who partially granted his appeal. Plaintiff began receiving the medication at least by July 25, 2007. Plaintiff's medication had been ordered on May 23, 2007, but this was never noted. In addition, Tramadol had been removed from CDCR's formulary in May 2007, resulting in delay while staff obtained clarification from Sacramento.

On July 24, 2007, Defendant Correa, supervising R.N., approved Salgado's decision to partially grant Plaintiff's appeal. Plaintiff requested a second level review, and on August 30, 2007, his appeal was partially granted at the second level by Defendant Correa and this was approved by Defendant Ball. Plaintiff requested a third level review, and on December 14, 2007, this was denied by Defendant O'Shaughnessy because all of Plaintiff's issues had been addressed by the institution except for the requested monetary compensation, and the appeal process did not allow for monetary compensation at any level.[5/]

4. Plaintiff labels his interference with/denial of medical treatment/medication as a First Amendment violation.

In that all Defendants except Defendant Noriega were involved in ensuring Plaintiff timely received his medication and/or simply reviewed his appeal after he began receiving the medication, there is no support for a claim of violation of the Eighth Amendment or denial of medical treatment/medication against Defendants Salgado, Correa, Ball, O'Shaughnessy or Tilton. Liability under section 1983 is predicated upon an affirmative link or connection between the defendants' actions and the claimed deprivations. See Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 372-73 (1976); May v. Enomoto, 633 F.2d 164, 167 (9th Cir. 1980).

As to Noriega, the allegations are not sufficient to satisfy the subjective prong of an Eighth Amendment claim.

Not every breach of the duty to provide medical care creates a constitutional cause of action. Hutchison v. United States, 838 F.2d 390, 394 (9th Cir. 1988). To establish an Eighth Amendment claim that prison authorities provided inadequate medical care, a plaintiff must show that defendants themselves were deliberately indifferent to his serious medical needs. Helling v. McKinney, 509 U.S. 25, 32 (1993); Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 104 & 106 (1976). Deliberate indifference may be manifest by the intentional denial, delay, or interference with a plaintiff's medical care, or by the manner in which the medical care was provided. See Estelle, 429 U.S. at 104-05; McGuckin v. Smith, 974 F.2d 1050, 1059 (9th Cir. 1992), overruled on other grounds, WMX Technologies v.

5. FAC pp. 26-27; First Level Appeal Response by Salgado dated July 20, 2007, as part of Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice; Request for Second Level Review by Plaintiff dated July 25, 2007, as part of Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice; Second Level Appeal Response by Correa dated August 20, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice; Director's Level Appeal Response by N. Grannis, reviewed on behalf of the Director of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation by O'Shaughnessy dated December 14, 2007, attached to Plaintiff's Inmate Appeal dated June 18, 2007, attached as Exhibit 2 to the Declaration in Support of the Request for Judicial Notice.

Miller, 104 F.3d 1133 (9th Cir. 1997). The defendants must purposefully ignore or fail to respond to a plaintiff's pain or medical needs in order for deliberate indifference to be established. See McGuckin, 974 F.2d at 1060. Negligence, inadvertence, or differences in medical judgment or opinion do not rise to the level of a constitutional violation. Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 105-06 (1976); Jackson v. McIntosh, 90 F.3d 330, 332 (9th Cir. 1996), cert. denied 519 U.S. 1029 (1996).

At most, Defendant Noriega, L.V.N., was negligent in allegedly forgetting to check the status of Plaintiff's medication on June 17, 2008. Plaintiff, however, filed an inmate appeal on June 18, 2008, regarding the status of the medication. Thus, Defendant Noriega's forgetting to look into the status of Plaintiff's medication one day earlier made no significant difference. Additionally, there are no allegations Noriega acted intentionally or maliciously.

Count Four of the First Amended Complaint should be dismissed without leave to amend because amendment would not cure the defect.

VIII.

DEFENDANTS SHOULD BE DISMISSED IN THEIR OFFICIAL CAPACITY BECAUSE ALL OF PLAINTIFF'S REQUESTS FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF ARE NOT WELL TAKEN; THE REQUESTS FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF SHOULD ALSO BE DISMISSED

If the entire First Amended Complaint is not dismissed as requested above, then Defendants should be dismissed in their official capacity because all of Plaintiff's requests for injunctive relief are not well taken.

"The Eleventh Amendment immunizes states from private damage actions brought in federal court." Henry v. County of Shasta, 132 F.3d 512, 517 (9th Cir. 1997). Likewise, the Eleventh Amendment bars a suit for damages against state officials in their official capacities. Regents of the University of California v. Doe, 519 U.S. 425, 429 (1997); Dittman v. California, 191 F.3d 1020, 1025-26 (9th Cir. 1999). The Eleventh Amendment, however, does not bar actions against state officers in their official capacities as to declaratory judgment or injunctive relief. Chaloux v. Killeen, 886 F.2d 247, 252 (9th Cir. 1989).

In his First Amended Complaint, Plaintiff makes the following requests for injunctive relief: 1) Defendants be prohibited from harassing, threatening, punishing or retaliating in any way against Plaintiff because he filed this action or against any other prisoner because that prisoner submitted affidavits in this case on behalf of the Plaintiff; 2) Defendants Ochoa, Janda and Tilton be prohibited from transferring Plaintiff to any other institution, without Plaintiff's express consent, during the pendency of this action; 3) Defendants Ochoa and Tilton be required to remove from Plaintiff's prison files and records any references to any events described in the First Amended Complaint or to the fact Plaintiff filed the suit; 4) Defendants Janda, Ochoa and Tilton be required to transfer and permanently house Plaintiff at either California Men's Colony, or California Medical Facility to receive adequate/effective medical treatment and adequate/effective physical therapy; 5) Defendants Ochoa, Tilton and Janda be required to expunge any and all false and retaliatory rule violation reports from Plaintiff's prison files. (FAC pp. 29-30.)

An injunction is an equitable remedy. The basis for injunctive relief, whether preliminary or permanent, is irreparable injury and inadequacy of legal remedies. Weinberger v. Romero-Barcelo, 456 U.S. 305, 312 (1982); Stanley v. University of So. Calif., 13 F.3d 1313, 1320 (9th Cir. 1994). A party seeking an injunction is required to show injury in fact (a concrete harm that is actual or imminent), causation, and redressibility. Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560-61 (1992); Hodgers-Durgin v. de la Vina, 199 F.3d 1037, 1044 (9th Cir. 1999). Establishing a risk of irreparable harm in the indefinite future is not enough. The harm must be shown to be imminent. Midgett v. Tri-County Metro. Transp. Dist. of Oregon, 254 F.3d 846, 850-51 (9th Cir. 2001). "The plaintiff must show that he 'has sustained or is immediately in danger of sustaining some direct injury' as the result of the challenged official conduct and the injury or threat of injury must be both 'real and immediate,' not 'conjectural' or 'hypothetical.'" City of Los Angeles v. Lyons, 461 U.S. 92, 101-02 (1983). Speculative losses are insufficient. Goldie's Bookstore, Inc. v. Sup. Ct., 739 F.2d 466, 472 (9th Cir. 1984). Injunctive relief may be denied if it would require constant supervision by the court. Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. v. U.S.E.P.A., 966 F.2d 1292, 1300 (9th Cir. 1992).

Where a party seeks to enjoin a government agency, "his case must contend with the well-established rule that the Government has traditionally been granted the widest latitude in the dispatch of its own internal affairs." Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 378-79 (1976) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted). "'[J]udicial restraint is especially called for in dealing with the complex and intractable problems of prison administration.'" Goff v. Harper, 60 F.3d 518, 520 (8th Cir. 1995). An injunction against a state agency requires a showing of an intentional and pervasive pattern of misconduct. Thomas v. County of Los Angeles, 978 F.2d 504, 508 (9th Cir. 1992). To succeed in the preliminary injunction, a plaintiff needs to show the misconduct flowed from a policy, plan or a pervasive pattern, and that the pattern, plan or policy was causally linked to the defendants named in the action. Id. at 509. To establish a pervasive pattern of misconduct, a plaintiff must show more than repeated incidents of misconduct; rather, a plaintiff must show a pervasive pattern reflecting department policy. (Id.)

In his First Amended Complaint, Plaintiff fails to allege any facts establishing a pattern, plan or policy to harass, threaten, punish or retaliate against him because he filed this action. Plaintiff fails to allege any concrete harm supporting his requests not to be transferred during the lawsuit and then to be transferred to a specific facility. He also does not allege any concrete injury from not having materials removed from his prison files. In fact, Plaintiff alleges his file contains a document finding him "not guilty" of the allegedly false rule violation charge due to insufficient evidence. (FAC pp. 14-15 ¶ 28.) He also alleges his file contains an inmate appeal which was partially granted regarding the allegedly false statement in the general chrono. (Id. p. 16 ¶ 34.)

Because Plaintiff's requests for injunctive relief are not well taken, the claims against Defendants in their official capacity should be dismissed. In addition, Plaintiff's requests for injunctive relief should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request this Court dismiss Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint in its entirety without leave to amend.
